Good day fellow warriors,

SUPPORT THE WAR WORTH FIGHTING FOR

The mere thought of being deprived of toilet paper or bread flour had many of us stockpiling when Lockdown was announced. Living without restaurants or ordering take-aways was almost unbearable and we celebrated the new freedoms that Level 3 offer us. However, for millions of South Africans, the lockdown had a much harsher outcome. For many in the informal job market that relied on daily or weekly wages with no means to stock up, living with hunger became a daily reality. Millions of people were unable to provide their families with their most basic need: food.

Going without food regularly not only results in starvation and malnutrition, it causes stunting in children, impacting their growth, development, and ability to learn.

The 1000 Women Trust work from within the most affected communities, supporting and empowering women warriors fighting the war on hunger. But the fight is bigger than us and we cannot do this alone. We need your help.

We have 45 soup kitchens feeding 20 000 people daily. As with many NGO's, our fundraising initiatives had to be postponed or cancelled, our funders had to cut back on donations and, like many others, our staff had to take salary cuts.

This however did not stop us as from finding ways and new partners in our Fight for food. If you can help us, now is the time. We are fighting to keep food on plates, to stop children from going to bed hungry, seniors from starvation, and families not knowing where their next meal will come from.

No person should live with hunger. You can make a lasting impact through a monthly donation or a once-off contribution to The 1000 Women Trust. Donations from as little as R10 can help to feed a family.
